

Hacks/Hackers London is a monthly meet-up group hosting talks from journalists like Martin Rosenbaum, Stephen Grey and Wendy Grossman, and technologists like Alastair Dant, Martin Belam and Christopher Osborne. This collection brings together notes from 16 of the talks, and looks at topics of interest to journalists and programmers alike, including freedom of information, processing big data sets to tell stories, social activism hack camps, the future of interactive technologies, community management, and using social media to cover your tracks and uncover those of somebody else.
